HUNS RUSHING FRESH TROOPS INTO STRUGGLE

Observers Predict Major Battle May Now Be In Opening Phase

CORFU CLEARED OF HUNS

Long Anticipated Thrust Of Reds May Be Under Way In East

By International News Service
American doughboys pressed forward down the streets of shell-pocked Aachen today in a grim house-to-house assault which observers predicted may be the opening phase of a major battle.

Repeated counter-attacks by enemy forces seeking to alleviate pressure on the ringed garrison city were beaten down by the doughboys, who slowly but steadily tightened their hold on the outlying sections of the town.

Headquarters observers foresaw in the fighting a hint that the desperate Nazis may elect to wage a major battle in the region surrounding Aachen, throwing their available resources into the combat in an all-out attempt to stop the First Army's drive. These sources also predicted that the enemy will defend the remainder of the vital gateway to the industrial sectors of the Reich even if Aachen falls.

The Germans rushed up reinforcements to the Aachen front from the area of Nijmegen, Holland, in a desperate eleventh hour effort to relieve the besieged garrison.

Defeats Multiply
Nazi defeats multiplied in the south and bigger setbacks appeared near in the East.

Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, Allied commander in the Mediterranean, announced that the last remaining German troops on Corfu island have surrendered. GOERING TELLS GERMANS THEY MUST FIGHT ON LONDON, Oct. 14—Reichs Marshal Hermann Goering warned the German people today that they are fighting for their very existence.

Speaking at a newly constructed arms plant in central Germany, according to the Berlin radio, he declared that Germany is facing the hardest test any country ever had to undergo.

"If we pull through," he added, "it will show for all time that Germany cannot be annihilated."

Germany must fight, on, Goering emphasized. "Our present sufferings from air attacks, our heavy and grievous losses, the hardships and privations we undergo are as nothing compared to the fate that would engulf Germany if only one of our enemies overcame us."

To avoid such a fate, Goering continued, "no hardship is too great. We must endure everything that must be endured but we must never capitulate."

There are difficulties and quarrels between the Allies, Goering declared, but these should not be over-estimated.

"Today they are united in the determination to annihilate Germany," he concluded.

DEWEY SET FOR SHARPEST BLOW

Big City Machines May Be Target Of Speech At St. Louis Monday

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 14—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey will deliver his sharpest speech of the campaign at St. Louis Monday night, Republican leaders predicted today.

The GOP presidential nominee, it was indicated, will renew his onslaught on the Roosevelt administration. He also may attack the alleged White House influence of the big city machines.

On several occasions, Gov. Dewey has charged that city bosses are a dominant influence in the present national administration. In St. Louis, it is reported, he will hammer at length on that allegation, naming names and incidents.

The title of the St. Louis speech, as announced by Paul E. Lockwood, secretary to Gov. Dewey, indicates it will be of the same type as those in Oklahoma City, where the GOP nominee accused President Roosevelt of "demagoguery" and "mud-slinging," and at Charleston, W. Va., where he said re-election of President Roosevelt would "best serve the aims of the Communists."

Lockwood said the governor will discuss Monday night "the urgent need for honesty and competence in our national government."

That title led to belief that President Roosevelt again will be a direct target for the GOP nominee, who declared at Oklahoma City and several other places that a Republican administration will "restore integrity to the White House."

Republican leaders were elated over the prospect that their candidate will deliver another slashing speech. They said the reaction to (Continued on Page Two)

ITALIAN BANKER HANDED 30-YEAR PRISON TERM

ROME, Oct. 14—Vincenzo Azzolini, former governor of the bank of Italy, received a 30-year sentence today following a trial on charges that he handed over millions in gold reserves to the Germans.

The state had asked the death penalty.

Azzolini stoutly maintained that he gave the gold to the Germans only after consultation with other bank officials, and evidence was introduced to show he had backed the Italian underground.

POLICE CLOSE DIPLOMA MILL FOR DOCTORS

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—A 24-year old youth, George William Manus, was held in $5,000 bail today on charges of running a two-room "diploma mill college" which specialized in $450 to $800 doctors' degrees.

Manus, taken into custody yesterday, was accused of representing himself as a physician with an M. D. from "White Cross Medical College of the University of Physicians and Surgeons of Southern California."

Investigators said they never found any teachers except Manus at the two-room Park avenue suite which served as his college, but found he had issued approximately 4,000 degrees.

Manus offered such degrees as a doctorate in psychotherapy for a fee of $450 and doctorate of science for $600, marked down from $1,000, it was charged.

Manus, held for a hearing Monday, was said to hold a draft card with a 4-D classification, a category reserved for ordained clergymen.

PILOT BALKS FREEDOM DASH OF WIFE KILLER

WETHERSFIELD, Conn., Oct. 14—Walter Magruder, 51, was back in the state prison here today with a pretty good idea of an old Yankee battlefront technique—coordination between air power and ground forces.

Magruder, serving a 12 to 15 year sentence for beating his wife to death last year, was working near the prison gates yesterday and managed to stroll out when no one was looking.

Ordinary efforts to capture him failed until Dr. Raymond S. Holtz of Hartford, acting flight surgeon of the Connecticut department of aeronautics, walked into the Hartford state police barracks and discovered the excitement over the escape.

A licensed pilot, Dr. Holtz offered to fly aerial reconnaissance. Borrowing a three-seater plane at Branford field, he imitated Army artillery spotting tactics and flew a sweep over the fields and marshes near the Connecticut river.

After an hour, he spotted a man in the marshland and by dropping to 100 feet was able to identify the person, with no radio in the plane. Dr. Holtz found a police car, dropped to an altitude of 30 feet and "buzzed" the car until the driver got the cue and followed the plane to the fugitive.

CORFU SURRENDERS

ROME, Oct. 14—The German garrison on the island of Corfu, in the Ionian sea off the coasts of Greece and Albania, has surrendered to the Allies, Mediterranean headquarters announced today.

POLICE TRAILING RAPE-MURDERER

Young Oil Heiress Slain In Luxurious Apartment In Hollywood

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14—Police were following an elusive trail through USO centers and Army bases today in an effort to track down the slayer of lovely Georgeanne Bauerdorf, 20-year-old oil heiress, who was criminally attacked and strangled to death in her luxurious Hollywood apartment.

Her half-nude body, clad only in pajama tops, was found Thursday morning lying face down in the bloody water of her overflowing bathtub. She had been strangled to death and a cloth forced down her throat.

June Ziegler, close friend of the girl and fellow hostess with her at the Hollywood Canteen told investigators that Wednesday night, the last night she saw Georgeanne alive, they were both dancing with servicemen at the canteen and that one soldier was continually "cutting in roughly" to force Miss Bauerdorf to jitterbug.

"She didn't like him and resented his attitude, but she told me she was dancing with him to avoid trouble," Miss Ziegler said.

Police are going temporarily on the assumption that this soldier or another may have awaited outside the canteen and then either cajoled or forced her to drive him to her apartment.

Her car missing for more than 16 hours, was found ten miles from her apartment with the keys still in the ignition.

2,000 ARRESTED FACE TRIAL AS DUTCH TRAITORS

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—The arrest of 2,000 Dutch traitors and collaborators in the liberated regions of Holland was reported today by the British radio.

These arrested, according to the broadcast, reported to the OWI, soon will be tried by a special court.

THEORISTS DRAW FIRE AT DAIRY CHIEFS' SESSION

Manufacturing Gets Nod Over Agriculture, Planning Meet Told

LIVESTOCK FACES THREAT

Cows Declared Forgotten Factories In Plans For Reconversion

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—Charges that postwar planning emphasis has been placed on manufacturing rather than agriculture opened a three-day postwar planning session of the Dairy Products Association executives conference in the nation's capital today.

Owen M. Richards, Chicago, manager of the American Dairy Association, in a speech prepared for delivery before the convention held that agricultural employment in the pre-war era far surpassed the number of workers in all manufacturing industries.

"But the emphasis in postwar economic planning has been placed on manufacturing whereas the source of all production and the jobs that go with it lie in the soil," Richards asserted.

"America's twenty-eight million dairy cows are the forgotten factories of reconversion plans," Richards said, asserting that "farming must be the keystone of our national program for re-employing twenty-five million service men and war workers because farming is our nation's greatest business and greatest maker of jobs."

Army On Farms

"The army of ten million 917 thousand persons employed in farming over the pre-war 1935-39 period surpassed the employment in all manufacturing industries combined, was six times the employment in all construction, ten times that of all railroads, twelve times that of public utilities and fourteen times that of mining."

Richards said that "theorists" are "continually urging policies (Continued on Page Two)"

ADMIRAL TELLS JAPS BIG YANK BLOW IS COMING

By International News Service
The people of Japan were told by Admiral Sankichi Takahashi, commander of the Kure naval station, that the mammoth American air attacks with Superfortresses and carrier-based bombers against Formosa and the Ryukyu islands constitute the prelude to operations for recapture of the Philippines.

Takahashi's pronouncement was quoted in a Tokyo broadcast recorded by the FCC.

"We cannot tell whether the raids were carried out with a plan to land directly on Taiwan (Formosa) or the Ryukyu islands," he said. "We must retain our spirit or getting excited by the enemy task force that appeared for the present raid. Behind this task force is the main fleet of the enemy."

The Tokyo transmitter claimed that planes of the Jap air force had "sunk or destroyed 10 enemy warships of which six are carriers." Pacific fleet headquarters announced that United States losses consisted only of 45 planes.

The enemy claimed that six aircraft carriers and an unidentified warship were sunk instantaneously and that two other carriers and a second unidentified warship were damaged.

Shozo Murata, Jap ambassador to the occupied Philippines, meanwhile admitted that "American guerrillas" were harassing Jap communications in the Philippines.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—The Nazi-controlled Belgrade radio in Yugoslavia has been silent for 24 hours, the British radio said today.

Dutch Food Situation Desperate Due To Hun Forces of Destruction

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—A dark forecast that the major cities of Holland will be entirely without supplies of water, food and fuel before the end of this month, was made today by Ambassador Alexander Loudon of the Netherlands.

In an exclusive statement to International News Service, the ambassador said: "The situation in Holland is so desperate that it can hardly be exaggerated."

At the Netherlands embassy, late information was received today regarding the effect on Holland of the furious battle now raging between Allies and German forces for control of the western defenses of the Reich. This information indicates that the Germans, having spared the underground of France and Belgium from the worst punishments because of the necessary rapid withdrawal from those countries, are now taking it out on the Dutch.

The ambassador declared: "Holland is being much harder hit by the German forces of destruction than any other country in Western Europe."

"The Germans, having experienced the strength of the resistance movements in France and Belgium are no longer in a mood to underestimate its importance and therefore are trying to crush it in Holland with all means at their disposal, including the most unlawful and cruel ones."

Loudon said the Germans had a special motive in this case. It was the desire of "weakening neighboring countries to the utmost, in order that in the hour of need Germany will still remain stronger."

Specific examples of brutal German reprisals were cited by Loudon. He named the villages of Putten, near Appeldoorn, and Berkel, near Rotterdam, which have been burned down by the Germans in reprisal for the refusal of Dutchmen to dig German defense works.

"The entire male population of Appeldoorn," the ambassador said, "has gone into hiding after the Germans shot down 30 men on the streets for refusal to 'cooperate.'"

The embassy in Washington has also received information regarding a general railway strike in Holland, carried out by the underground on orders from the government in London.

The strike involves 30,000 men, with the result that railway traffic has been tied up, and no trains are moving except those operated by Germans.

In addition to the devastation wrought by the Germans in Holland, British bombers blasted open the sea wall of Walcheren, with the result that 82 square miles of once fertile lands were added to the already considerable acreage under water.

It was recognized by the embassy that the flooding of Walcheren was a military necessity for the protection of Antwerp, the only channel port captured by the Allies in an undamaged condition. But this flooding has increased to 20 percent the amount of agricultural land in Holland which has been ruined for many years to come.

NEW JERSEY TO COUNT VOTES OF DEAD SOLDIERS

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 14—New Jersey today joined the list of states who will count the ballots of servicemen killed after casting their votes.

Attorney General Walter D. Van Riper said the "eligibility of a soldier to vote is determined at the time he makes out his ballot" and ruled that the count would be made "regardless of what misfortune may have overtaken the voter" between mailing the ballot and election day. Approximately 350,000 New Jersey servicemen received absentee ballots and more than 100,000 of these have already been returned.

SOUTHERN ENGLAND AGAIN SHAKEN BY ROBOT BOMBS

LONDON, Oct. 14—Southern counties of England, including the London area, were shaken during the night by new blasts of German flying bombs, the ministry of home security announced today. Casualties and damage resulted in some areas.

CARRIER PLANES POUND ISLAND FOR THIRD DAY

Bombardment Aimed At Paralyzing Nip Bases Before P. I. Invasion

JAPANESE LOSSES HEAVY

Torrent Of Bombs Poured On Airdromes, Buildings, Dock Facilities

By International News Service
Japan's key island bastion of Formosa, guardian of the sealanes leading to the China coast, was pounded for the third straight time today in an aerial assault which reportedly saw a force of 450 carrier-based planes team with giant Superfortresses.

A war department communique announced an assault upon Formosa by the big B-29's just a short time before the Japanese high command reported the third successive onslaught by waves of carrier-based craft. Presumably the shattering bombardments are aimed, at least in part, at paralyzing enemy bases in preparation for an invasion of the Philippines, Washington observers declared.

No immediate details of the Superfortress assault were released. Tokyo took advantage of the temporary silence to flood the airwaves with propaganda claims that the big planes "fled in defeat—almost without dropping any bombs." The B-29's, according to the Tokyo version, appeared over the island after the carrier-based planes left.

In the last two days of operations against Formosa, some 100 Japanese vessels have been sunk or damaged and nearly 400 planes destroyed, boosting to 227 the number of enemy ships and to 525 the total of Japanese planes blasted in that general theater in the last week.

Soaring Japanese losses, flashed in revised reports from the China sea battle zones, stood today at 237 ships of all types sunk or damaged and 515 planes destroyed or shot out of action in mighty hammer blows struck since Monday by the Navy's carrier warbirds and the Army's great land-based superforts.

A preliminary report on the crushing two-way air blow at Formosa, which lies just north of the Philippines and 80 miles east of the China coast, showed that 100 Japanese vessels and 396 planes were destroyed or damaged Wednesday night and Thursday.

In addition, a torrent of bombs was poured on airdromes, buildings, oil dumps, warehouses, dock facilities and industrial establishments along the entire western coast of Formosa, a 250-mile long stronghold which Japan used as a springboard for the 1941 invasion of the Philippines.

A second communique on the devastating operations of the Pacific fleet revised sharply upward Japanese losses during Monday's opening blow by carrier aircraft at shipping and defense installations (Continued on Page Two)

CANADA GETS READY TO MEET PEACE PROBLEMS

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 14—Prime Minister MacKenzie King moved today to prepare Canada for the problems of peace by appointing three top dominion officials to "promote maximum employment, maximum production and social security" after the war.

Clarence Howe, minister of munitions and supply, was named as minister of reconstruction. Howe will continue his present portfolio as well as assuming the new post. Ian MacKenzie was made minister of veterans' affairs and Brooke Claxton, member of parliament from Montreal was appointed minister of national health and welfare.

MacKenzie formerly was minister of pensions and national health which was discontinued under the prime ministers' reorganization with its functions divided between the newly created departments of veterans' affairs and of national health and welfare.

TRAPEZE ACT FAIR FEATURE

Show To Be Presented Twice Daily During Big Event Next Week

A high wire trapeze act will be the free attraction at the Junior Fair next week, the fair committee announced Saturday.

The act, one of the features of the Lancaster fair this week, will be presented at 5 and 11 p. m. daily except Wednesday, the first night of the show, when it will be presented at 11 p. m. only. The act features Ethel D'Arcy.

Seven rides will be set up on the downtown streets. These include the ferris wheel, kiddie auto, train, octopus, sky ride, merry-go-round and whip.

Streets will be blocked off the first of the week to permit setting up of rides and concessions on Court and Main street. Route 23 traffic will be detoured at Mound and Watt streets to Pickaway. Route 22 traffic will be sent over Mound street.

Agricultural exhibits, 4-H and other group displays will be in the armory on Franklin street. Livestock will be shown in a tent at the rear of the armory.

A new feature this year will be a pet tent where Circleville children may display pets. Featured will be bantams and rabbits. The tent will be on East Franklin street.

ALKY BATH FOR LUMBAGO FAILS AND FEDS GET HIM

CHICAGO, Oct. 14—The department of justice today undertook to cure Benny Davis' cure for lumbago.

Davis, 52, was sentenced to 30 days in the federal lockup after protesting that he bathed in three gallons of untaxed alcohol in hopes of ridding himself of lumbago.

Federal agents reported, however, that Davis was selling the alcohol.

Within Sarande, a titanic explosion ripped the center of the town when delayed action bombs went off. No casualties were suffered by the British occupation forces, however.

Official word of the landing of the new invasion force in Greece, promised yesterday by General Wilson, was awaited eagerly, but at a late hour no further statement had yet been made. Unofficial reports asserted that Greek patriots have liberated Athens and the port of Piraeus, but confirmation was lacking.

Huns Desperate
Desperate German forces launched heavy counter-attacks north of Aachen in an attempt to relieve pressure on their troops within that besieged city. Mud-covered doughboys steadily advanced into Aachen, however, and wiped out an armored force trying to break through to the Nazi bastion.

Within the debris—and glass-littered city, fierce hand-to-hand fighting raged as the Americans battled to oust the enemy from heavily defended strongpoints. South of Aachen, Lieut. - Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' doughboys pounded out new gains in Hurtgen forest, reclaiming territory lost to earlier German counter-attacks.

Unofficial Russian sources reported that the long-anticipated thrust on pre-war Nazi territory from the East has begun. Reports reaching Moscow said that the Red Army has sent its steel spearheads ripping into Memel, placing the sprawling port of Memel under direct attack.

The assault came less than 24 hours after Premier Marshal Joseph Stalin, in a special order of the day, announced the capture of the Latvian capital of Riga and combined Yugoslav-Soviet units drive to "the very walls of Belgrade."

The Germans again fell back on their terror weapon to retaliate for their defeats on the war fronts. Blasts of V-1 robot bombs, presumably launched from pick-a-back planes, reverberated through the southern counties of England, including London, during the night. The ministry of home security acknowledged that casualties and property damage were reported in some areas.

YANKEE TROOPS IN EUROPE ARE "WINTERIZED"

PARIS, Oct. 14—Cold, wet weather on the western front has resulted in almost complete winterization of American troops, Major Gen. Robert M. Littlejohn, chief quartermaster of the European theater of operations, revealed today.

In a 10-day period, the general said, tons of blankets, overshoes, woolen underwear, socks and winter overcoats have been rushed to the rim of Germany and requirements are more than 90 per cent fulfilled.

A total of 41 per cent of the warm clothing was speeded to the front by planes—a record operation.

Littlejohn disclosed that 27 pounds of supplies, including food must be supplied daily to every man on the firing lines.

Broken down, this amounts to six pounds of food, 15 pounds of gasoline, four pounds of fuel and 1½ pounds of miscellaneous items.

Col. Robert T. Willkie, of Louisville, Ky., brother of the late Wendell Willkie, and chief of the subsistence division of the quartermasters corps, said that field rations like C rations and K rations now were going only to 30 per cent of the troops. The majority are getting B rations, containing fruit, meat and vegetables, while fresh bread is being delivered to "practically every foxhole."

During the present cold weather, the colonel added, from 15 to 20 per cent additional rations are being distributed.

Everything is ready for Thanksgiving Day, Col. Willkie said. The main holiday meal will include turkey, pumpkin pie and "all the fixins" in generous quantities.

Frontline units may get their dinners a little late, he said, but "they certainly will get them."

DEWEY SET FOR SHARPEST BLOW

the Oklahoma City and Charleston talks was much more favorable than to the other Dewey speeches and they have urged the governor to keep hammering away, without gloves, from now until election day.

Best evidence that the St. Louis speech will be an all-out attack is given by the arrangements which have been made to rebroadcast it. It will be carried over the regular radio channels Monday night. In addition, it will be re-broadcast to all states, except the Pacific coast, on October 17, between 12:30 and 1 p. m. (EWT). It will be re-broadcast in the Pacific coast states October 18 between 6:15 and 6:45 a. m. (PWT).

Selection of the early morning time for the Pacific coast is aimed at the night war plant workers. It indicates that Governor Dewey will challenge again the ability of the Roosevelt administration, on the basis of past performances, to gear the national economy for peace time production and jobs.

Gov. Dewey will leave Albany tomorrow afternoon for St. Louis and he will return to his home state immediately after his St. Louis speech. He is to discuss foreign policy in a speech Wednesday night before the New York Herald-Tribune Forum.

Richards, representing an association which claims five million dairy farmers, told representatives of the manufacturing and distributing branches of the dairy industry from coast to coast who are attending the conference on postwar problems:

"Our twenty-eight million dairy cows—each one a war production plant—are the forgotten factories of reconversion."

He said that in addition to its direct employment, farm production underlies jobs of "additional millions in food, railroad and trucking industries and the wholesale and retail trade."

U. S. Air Might in Action--and Another Jap Convoy Is Riddled

SPECTACULAR BUT DISASTROUS for the Japs was this U. S. Far East Air Forces strike at Jap shipping off Kavieng, New Ireland.

At the left the U. S. planes attack the convoy. At the right only burning fragments remain of the Jap ships. (International)

Gave Nazis Terms

LT. WILLIAM BOEHME, 35-year-old New Yorker of German-American parentage, was one of three Yanks who carried the surrender terms to the Germans at Aachen, besieged German city. The Germans refused to accept the ultimatum and the Allies began the all-out assault to wipe out the stronghold. Boehme and the others were blindfolded by the Nazis before they were taken to the command post. (International)

ALL ABOARD FOR AACHEN--BUT FOR ONLY ONE WAY

SOMETHING NEW IN THE WAY OF WEAPONS was used by the Yanks during the battle for Aachen. Discovering a couple of dozen German tram cars on a hill above the town, the Yanks did a little "V for victory" paint job on 'em, loaded them with German ammunition and then rolled them downhill into the town where they exploded. DIPLOMATIC TRENCHMEN

PREMIER Marshal Stalin of Russia is a great man, who in some ways is a bit primitive. And those are ways which hale and hearty Britons or Americans can understand. The visit of Winston Churchill and Anthony Eden to Moscow the other day, flanked by British and American diplomats, providing another of the hearty banquets which have been famous in Moscow for ages. This was a mid-afternoon affair, merely sandwiched in, apparently, between lunch and dinner, but it lasted for three and a half hours and offered renewed opportunity for many toasts.

Some diplomatic dinners there have lasted all night. And when Russians get to the toasting point, the vintage wines, mingled with the national vodka, flow somewhat more plentifully than is comfortable for temperate Americans. But Premier Churchill, at least, is reputed to do his duty on such occasions like a true Briton, so the top men get on famously.

This sort of thing is naturally deplored by the cold-stone-sober type of American, but it seems to be one of the hazards of war, and still more of diplomacy. Also, breaking bread at the same table, in some magical way seems to bring Russians and Americans together, at least for short periods, in mutual understanding and co-operation.

RESTORATION

BULGARIA, caught with the goods and unable to get away with them, has accepted armistice terms from the Allies and promised to get out of Greek and Yugoslav territory. This is not an act of grace, but of compulsion. Britain, Russia and Uncle Sam would have driven her out by force.

This might be taken for a sign. There may still be a good deal of blood-letting, especially in handling the German problem. But speaking in general, the tide has turned and international law and order are beginning to emerge.

And it is destined to become really a new order, in which "the war drum throbs no longer, and the battle flags are furled in the Parliament of Man, and Federation of the world?" We cannot tell yet; but it cannot be delayed much longer. Another great war would wreck modern civilization.

The luckiest Nazi of them all is Rudolf Hess. He is safe in an English prison, and can count on nothing worse happening to him. The rest of them, if they think of their future fates, can hardly sleep nights.

Too much cashing of war bonds! Better salt 'em down.

Ford Plan Upsetting to Some Auto Competitors

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Somewhat lost sight of, but of great importance to GI Joe, is a special provision in the George bill for post-war demobilization and reconversion which makes it mandatory on the Army and Navy to muster out servicemen when their job is done.

Regardless of comment recently by Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey that it might be cheaper to keep the men in service until jobs were available, the new law actually provides that:

"The War and Navy departments shall NOT retain persons in the armed forces for the purpose of preventing unemployment or awaiting opportunities for employment."

THE AUTOMOTIVE WAR COUNCIL has reason not to love Henry Ford, the rugged independent of the car-making industry. A few days ago, the council invited New York, Washington and Chicago newsmen to Detroit to hear the auto industry's problems on reconversion.

From the topflight executives of each company the reporters heard the plea for prompt government action to aid preparatory reconversion steps. The principal appeal was for priorities to obtain much needed machine tools.

Before the seminar concluded, however, Ford's people blandly announced that Ford needed no tools to start production; that the Ford empire is self-contained; that it is going to beat its competitors to the post-war market with new cars within 60 days after the government gives the green light.

Automotive war council officials groaned with dismay. Ford neatly upset their tearful story on reconversion.

LA GUARDIA TO ITALY NOV. 15

WASHINGTON—You can write it down as certain that some all-important diplo-military appointments will be announced next month, possibly earlier. Here is the lineup:

1.—Brigadier General Fiorello La Guardia will go to Italy on Nov. 15 to become top U. S. adviser to the Italian civil government.

2. Leon Henderson, former OPA Administrator, will go to France to be economic adviser on the staff of General Eisenhower, later will take over the economic rule of U. S. occupied Germany after the armistice.

3. Randolph Paul, former General Counsel of the Treasury, is being asked to become U. S. Minister to Italy, representing both the State Department and the Foreign Economic Administration on all economic matters. This appointment is not definite yet, depending on whether Paul, who bore the brunt of the tax fight, is willing to return to public life.

4. Philip Reed, chairman of the board of General Electric, will resign as U. S. Minister to London in charge of all economic affairs. His successor has not been chosen.

Despite all the mystery about Mayor La Guardia's future in Italy, his brigadier generalship actually is all set and is only waiting the proper time for public announcement. It will be La Guardia's job to put the Italian government on its feet. The idea was heartily approved by Churchill, who thought the fiery mayor of New York was just the man to inject the proper backbone into the limping Bonomi government. The Bonomi regime faces a terrific job in bringing back stable Italian democracy after two decades of dictatorship and four years of bloodshed.

La Guardia left Congress during World War 1 to become a major in the Air Corps, where he served on the Italian Piave front. He has been itching to get back into uniform in this war, but War Department brasshats have shuddered at the idea of coping with mayor's dynamic, irrepressible temperament. Churchill and Roosevelt have now overruled the brasshats.

The appointment of Leon Henderson as economic boss of occupied Germany is also definitely set. Only point to be decided is his exact title and power, which will depend somewhat on the ideas of our Allies.

WAR'S END!

One inside reason for General Marshall's sudden visit to the western front was to decide the probabilities of ending the war this year. That was also one reason why "Assistant President" Jimmy Byrnes accompanied him. Byrnes wanted to get a clearer picture of how big a supply job would have to be accomplished if the war continued into 1945.

Before General Marshall left Washington, he confided to high-up Administration chiefs that there was still a chance to end the German war this year.

It is no secret that General Eisenhower has been bringing tremendous supplies and reinforcements to make one more gigantic push before winter sets in. This

The Cause Of Acne And Its Treatment

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

EVERY PART of the body and every age in life has its own peculiar kind of skin trouble. The face is most liable to be afflicted with eczema, the neck with pellagra, the armpits with tinea, the abdomen with scabies, the knees with psoriasis, the feet with ringworm—to give a few examples of the localizing disposition. And as for age distribution—the infant has impetigo, the adult psoriasis and the aged keratosis.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

The disease special and peculiar to the period of youth and adolescence is acne, or pimples. And that fact must certainly be taken into account in any theory of the cause and treatment of this peculiar disorder. To put it differently, at the very period when the ductless gland system is maturing and rising to a lather of activity of secretion, trying to adjust itself, sometimes producing too much of this and sometimes too little, the skin responds in this unsightly manner.

Of course, that it is a condition of adolescence is of fundamental importance in the understanding of the psychology and handling of these patients. In the springtime of life when a lovelier iris should come upon the burnished dove, when the ego sprouts as the cedars of Lebanon, this is the very accursed time when the face is covered with this red, splotchy, pimply breaking out that is repulsive even in the victim's own mirror, let alone to the only girl or boy, as the case may be, in the world. No wonder the poor kids are plunged into dark despair and have to be handled very gently and sympathetically.

Causes of Acne

In spite of the many and often conflicting explanations of the causation of acne there is a primary change in the skin in all cases according to an eminent dermatologist. That basic change is an increase in the horny cells at the opening of the grease glands of the skin.

This change it has been observed is identical with the changes that occur in the skin in Vitamin A deficiency. Since every aspect of the condition indicates some underlying disturbance of nutrition it may be that something like a difficulty in absorbing or utilizing Vitamin A is present.

On this theory a series of 100 cases of acne were treated by supplementing the diet with a daily addition of 100,000 units of Vitamin A. Following treatment for six months it is reported that 79 became free, or nearly free, of acne, and only three patients were unimproved. There is some exacerbation of the condition at first with this treatment for a month or two in some of the patients, then the formation of new comedones, papules and pustules gradually recedes.

Treatment of Acne

General measures for the treatment of acne are always indicated. The diet should be regulated, but not to the point where it is inadequate. The general health should not suffer in trying to get rid of the unsightly eruption because in the course of time it will go away anyhow. Many of the patients are found to be drinking too much milk under the impression that it is wholesome. Milk, chocolate, peanut butter and nuts have a reputation for making the condition worse.

The care of the scalp is essential in the successful management of acne. This applies equally to the treatment of seborrheic dermatitis of the face. Most of the patients are beset with dandruff accompanied by itching.

Washing the face twice or three times daily with a neutral soap which the patients have learned will not irritate their skins is indicated. Do not irritate the skin of the face by vigorous rubbing with a wash cloth.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
C. N. B.—Is there a positive test for undulant fever? What are the symptoms? Is there a cure for it?

Answer: The blood agglutination test is reliable. The symptoms are most usually no more than fever and fatigue. Recovery is the rule with good nursing care. There is no specific treatment.

NEWSMEN COVERING PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S press conferences at the White House have noticed he has aged considerably in the past four years. He is held to be as robust as a man of his age—60—could expect to be. His frequent attacks of sinus and "head cold" have weakened him.

His recently-taken photographs from Bremerton and Quebec made him seem very old of face—far from the beaming Roosevelt of the "happy days are here again" era.

However, he appeared to have snapped back considerably at his address to the Teamsters' union. Newsmen noticed the old "zip" was not quite there, but the fighting spirit was, although he still seemed extremely weary.

THE DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE is promising household and clothing fabrics that won't be easily soiled because of their smooth surface. The fabrics will be soil-resistant, wrinkle-resistant, moth-fire-grease-resistant and can be merely wiped clean or laundered without ironing.

Also predicted are steaks cut and packaged for quick selection and perfection. No more waiting for the butcher to cut and weigh—just order, cook and eat—a nice post-war dream.

RUSSIA'S HARSH PEACE TERMS to Finland and Romania and the vigorous attacks by the Polish Committee of National Liberation on Warsaw's famed "General Bor," now a German captive, offers new evidence that the Soviet Union will brook no opposition from Great Britain and the United States in her plan to dominate eastern Europe.

In Washington, however, observers are hoping that American and British foreign experts take a chapter or two from Russia's book of hard-boiled, realistic foreign policy and learn to play their cards close to their chests.

Washington hopes that Anglo-American diplomats will remove their kid gloves.

CHAPTER ONE

ANNA HAUB opened the door and at the same time, for me, opened the door upon murder. Naturally, I didn't know that and take to my heels.

Her solid figure was a sharp black and white against the baroque richness and color of the hall behind her. She wore a white cap, as crisp and fresh as her apron. Her face was round and shone; her light straight hair was drawn tightly backward. But what I really saw was the look of frightened recognition in her china-blue eyes. She was not looking at me; she had given me the barest glance. She was looking at Drue, who came with me.

I said, "We are expected," intending to explain that we, Drue Cable and I, were the nurses Dr. Chivery had sent for, but I didn't, for I had to follow the maid's look and I turned to Drue who stood beside me. As I turned, Drue took her hand from her mouth and said on a queer shaken breath, "Anna! Oh, Anna, how is he?"

That—and the look in Anna's eyes—were my first indication that Drue Cable had ever seen or heard of the Brent family in her life. She had been extraordinarily silent and a little pale in the train that February morning; she had been extraordinarily determined that the second nurse (for they had sent for two) should be me, Sarah Keate; but she had not, that morning or ever, so much as mentioned the name of the Brents or the town of Ballfold in the Berkshires—and I knew her extremely well.

Neither Drue nor the maid looked at me. Drue's words seemed to give Anna a kind of confirmation that she had, bewilderedly, needed. She dropped an old-fashioned curtsy which billowed her full black skirt around her solid ankles. The look of fright, however, sharpened in her eyes, and she looked over her shoulder, backward into the depths of the house, and said in a low and distressed voice, "Oh, Miss! Oh, Madam, you oughtn't to have come here."

"I know, Anna..." Drue put out both her sturdy little hands in her pigskin gloves and caught the maid's hands. "Anna, tell me quickly. Will he live?"

"He—he—I don't know, Ma'am. It only happened last night. Miss—you'd really better go. Before they know."

Drue took a long breath and said, "I hoped you would come to the door, you or Bevens. Anna, I'm coming in. What room is he in?"

"His own room. He, oh, but, Madam—" said Anna, on the verge of tears. Drue stepped inside the hall. I followed and closed the door behind me, for Anna was too stricken to move. There was a quick impression of a massive hall and staircase that was all dark wood paneling, and a floor made of squares of black and white marble; of high-backed chairs and long Italian tables; of rich but subdued color in the tapestries and rugs. Anna wrung her clean pink hands together, and Drue said, "It's all right, Anna. I'm a nurse, you remember; they sent me here to take care of him."

She too gave a quick look along the depths of the great hall; there were doors, solid slabs of dark carved wood, but there was a kind of thickness and padded quality in the place that made me feel no one was likely to hear our voices. She went quickly to the stairway and stopped and seemed to listen, looking upward. Her soft, green tweed suit was sleekly tailored to her slender, erect figure; her profile against the dark wood paneling was clear and white, and her crimson mouth was rather set, yet obviously it was held so only by the strongest effort of will.

Just then something happened that threatened it. For there was a tiny scamper of sound somewhere near, a pause and a silence which had a quality of the most intent observation.

Nurse Sarah Keate explains her mission to Anna Haub, Brent's maid.

We all looked at the back of the hall; at the entrance to some passage stood a small creature in a veritable agony of watchfulness. Stood there for only a second or two, then Drue said with a break in her voice, "Sir Francis," and with a tiny rush of feet, a throbbing sound in its throat, the little thing hurried itself across the great hall and toward us.

Toward us? Toward Drue. It leaped into her arms and strove frantically, almost sobbing, to lick her face and her hands. It was a Yorkshire terrier, a tiny thing, his long forelock hanging down over his glistening eyes.

Anna said, "He's never forgotten, Miss."

Drue held the little terrier tight and put her face down against its little frenzied body for a long moment. Then she looked up the stairway and put her hand to her mouth again. It was no longer the firm resolute line it had been. She took a quick breath, and still holding the little dog, started up the stairs. The maid made a futile, prohibitive move forward and stopped.

Drue did not look back. So again I followed. And Anna finally followed me. As I turned at the wide landing and looked back, I saw her

Words of Wisdom

Faith is the root of all good works; a root that produces nothing is dead.—Bishop Wilson.

Today's Horoscope

A birthday today means that you are abrupt and impulsive, and sometimes act without considering the consequences. You should marry someone who is easy going and dependable, to complement your nature. You are capable of a great and enduring love. A happy, successful year is envisioned.

Horoscope for Sunday

You have very definite ideas and a matter-of-fact way about you, if today is your birthday. You lack imagination and enthusiasm. You saged for you. Your affairs will prosper, but you should make no impulsive financial changes. Also avoid the law. The child born today will be moderately fortunate and a general favorite. Artistic, musical and literary talent is indicated, also occasional worries and losses.

Hints on Etiquette
If you have moved to a new town and the older residents call on you, you must return these calls, even if you do not desire to continue to cultivate a friendship with these people.

2. Solomon.
3. A ruler of the Jews who came to Jesus at night.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

PRETTY NEARLY "NEVER"

YOU MAY find it hard to think of a case in which you should not show a fit with your partner's four-card major suit. That comes pretty close to being one time when you can use the words "always" and "never." In fact, it is about as near as you will ever come in bridge. Of course, there are times when you should double the opponents instead of going on with your own bidding, and there are also those extremely rare ones when you are sure the side can make 7-No Trumps.

And South got just what he deserved. West made the unorthodox lead of the diamond 6, and was lucky enough to find East holding the A. The Rule of Eleven told him that South had three higher cards than the 6, so that the suit was securely stopped. The only hope, then, seemed to be that West was better fixed in clubs, with tenaces sitting over whatever South had. So he returned the club Q. That put the blocks to South, who was set two tricks.

There was hardly any excuse for South to fail to show a fit with his partner's spades at some stage. If he did not do it with 3-Spades on his first response, he preferred a jump in No Trumps, because he thought he was a better player than his partner, then he certainly should have shifted to spades when the 3-Hearts bid reached him. Nobody could have failed to make a spade game on that hand, losing two tricks in clubs and one in diamonds.

Your Week-End Lesson
When it is sound to bid for a No Trump game even though you hold a singleton in the suit with which your partner responded to your opening bid of another suit?

Grange Degrees Given At Washington Inspection

Fine Program Presented At Assembly

Excellent work was exemplified Friday at the annual inspection meeting of Washington grange in Washington school auditorium. First and second degrees were conferred on a class of candidates, comprised of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pugsley, Mr. and Mrs. Remus Hartsock, Arthur and Patricia Hartsock, by the grange degree team headed by Mr. and Mrs. Loring Leist. An effective drill was presented by the team preceding the work.

Mrs. Robert Lawrence was soloist for the occasion with Miss Dorothy Glick as pianist.

Turney Glick, county deputy, was inspecting officer for the grange. Mrs. Glick, county juvenile matron, inspected the work of the juvenile chapter, the group making a good showing.

During a short program, Cornell Copeland, gave an interesting and informative talk on "Farm Security," monologue, "Mrs. Simkins Applies First Aid," Mrs. M. M. Bowman; group singing concluded the entertainment.

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Valentine and their committee served lunch at the close of the evening.

Third and fourth degrees will be conferred at the next meeting on the class of candidates by the Salt Creek Valley degree team.

Presbyterian Association

An interesting group was present Friday for the October session of the Woman's association of the Presbyterian church, the meeting being held in the church social room. Mrs. Will Mack reviewed the story, "The Higginbottoms," telling of the work of Sam and Ella Higginbottom, missionaries to India. Mr. Higginbottom, who had received his advanced schooling at Mt. Herman School and Princeton university, taught economics and agriculture at the Atta Hubad Christian College in India, his wife teaching rural women's skills to Indian girls. They took charge of the Naine Leper Home, and for 30 years cared for 600 lepers, building useful lives for them in an agricultural institution. For their great work in making a future for rural India, the government of the country decorated both.

Miss Florence Dunton, president, was in the chair for the meeting. Mrs. Charles Dresbach conducted the devotionals, reading the story of Isaiah's vision for the Scripture lesson and offering prayer. Mrs. Donald Watt reviewed the highlights of the district meeting held Thursday in Kingston.

During the business hour, Mrs. George Barnes, secretary, and Mrs. H. O. Pile, treasurer, reported. It was announced that Group C, Mrs. E. O. Crites, chairman, would furnish the program at the November meeting.

Mrs. Loring E. Evans read a letter from Dr. Saltzburger, a missionary to Arizona, thanking the association for dresses sent by the group.

Mrs. Charles Niles read, "Light Through Power," by Emma Jessie Ogg.

Mrs. Mack and her group arranged the program for the afternoon.

Circle 7

Circle 7 of the W. S. C. S. of the Methodist church met Friday at the home of Mrs. Hazel Clifton, Pinckney street, with 20 present. Mrs. Walter F. Heine reviewed the Stanley Jones' book, "Christ of the Indian Road."

Mrs. Charles Stofor, chairman, conducted the business hour and Mrs. Frank Morrison, the devotionals, reading the Scripture lesson from Matthew 25, and presenting a poem, "I Heard Christ Call."

Mrs. Frank Kline, chorister, led group singing.

Mrs. Clifton, assisted by Mrs. Ella Hornbeck, Mrs. B. Orr, Mrs. Edwin Shanton and Harry Moore, served a dessert course.

Members planned for a Halloween party at the church on October 31. All members are asked to come masked. Mrs. Stofor will be in charge and Mrs. Elsworth Coffland will be an assisting hostess.

The next regular meeting, November 10, will be at the home of Mrs. George Forst, North Court street.

Circle 3

Circle 3 of the W. S. C. S. of the Methodist church held its October session at the home of Mrs. George P. Bach, East Main street, with 12 members responding to roll call. Mrs. N. E. Reichelderfer, Circle 2, was a guest.

Mrs. O. C. King was in charge of the worship service, using parts of Chapters 13 and 14 of the Gospel of St. John, followed by the Lord's prayer in unison.

Mrs. G. H. Adkins, circle chairman, notified the members that the district meeting of the W. S. C. S. would be held in Lancaster on October 31. Mrs. Adkins also requested that the members

STARS SAY—

For Saturday, October 14

IT IS PROBABLE that the interests, funds and concentrated resources and energies will be devoted to the pursuit of pleasure, or to social, artistic, domestic and affectional affairs rather than to workaday objectives. In the latter there is no need of caution in legal matters, in speculation as well as in any outlay of funds, even on business or personal extravagances. Popularity and prestige should be under auspices for success and happiness.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves enjoying a year in which the more pleasant and happier patterns of living engage their attention rather than prosaic or commonplace activities. The latter may have dangers through treachery, bad investments, extravagance or legal entanglements. Artistic, musical and literary ambitions are under encouraging rule, and there may be thrilling romantic, domestic or social pleasures and popularity. A child born on this day may have many versatile creative skills and aspirations, enjoying more popularity and progress than financial returns.

For Sunday, October 15

SUNDAY'S horoscope while fairly lively and interesting in the conventional vocations or avocations of the Sabbath day, is not encouraging for business or financial matters. Undercover or quiet treatment of any needful activities would succeed better than the open and above board. Mystical, spiritual, artistic studies or intrigues of any character should thrive.

Those whose birthday it is may find that affairs managed with quiet tactics, with stratagem or intrigue rather than direct or tangible methods should meet greater success. Unusual faculties, insight, intuitions may be relied upon to promote success and accomplishment rather than prosaic methods. There might be activity with groups, fraternities, or in diplomatic or political associations. Creative talents of high order may be cultivated.

A child born on this day may be intuitive, original, and work from its inner urges or promptings rather than the objective, which latter hold anxieties.

ATLANTA

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Morris, Jr., and sons were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Crawford and son, Ralph.

Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Keaton were Sunday visitors at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Keaton, and daughter, Mary Ann, and son, George.

The regular meeting of the P. T. A. will be held Tuesday evening, October 17. Guest speaker for the evening will be Mrs. T. D. Van Camp, of Williamsport.

Personals

Mrs. Edith Igou, of Cleveland, is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Colwell, of North Court street.

Mrs. W. B. Poor, who has been visiting her sisters, Mrs. Mack E. Noggle, West Union street, and Mrs. Chester Valentine, Saltcreek township, left Friday to return to her home in Houston, Texas.

Mrs. Lewis Black, 153 Walnut street, left Saturday for Alabama to spend a few days with her husband, Corporal Black, who is stationed at Daniel Field.

Mrs. Bruce Stevenson, Jackson township, was a Friday shopping visitor in Circleville.

Jesus' Understanding of Man

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for October 15 is Genesis 1:27; Psalm 8; Matthew 12:9-21, the Golden Text being John 2:25, "He needeth not that any one should bear witness concerning man; for He Himself knew what was in man.")

"SO GOD created man in His own image, in the image of God created He him; male and female created He them." So reads the first chapter of Genesis, the 27th verse.

Then our lesson continues to the eighth psalm of David: "O Lord, our Lord, how excellent is Thy name in all the earth! who hast set Thy glory above the heavens. When I consider Thy heavens, the work of Thy fingers, the moon and the stars, which Thou hast ordained;

"What is man that Thou art mindful of him? and the son of man that Thou visitest him? For Thou hast made him a little lower than the angels, and hast crowned him with glory and honor.

"Thou madest him to have dominion over the works of Thy hands; Thou hast put all things under his feet:

"O Lord, our Lord, how excellent is Thy name in all the earth!"

What Jesus Thought of Man

So the psalmist, King David thought of man. Now we go to the time of Jesus, and see what Christ has to say of the dignity of man, and His understanding of him.

Early in His ministry Jesus went into the synagogue on the Sabbath, as we read in many instances in the record of His life on earth. There was there a man with a withered hand—quite useless was his right hand.

The Pharisees, who were Jesus' enemies from the first, asked Him, in apparent innocence, but scheming to catch Him, "Is it lawful to heal on the Sabbath days?"

Jesus' answer was immediate and right to the point. "What man shall there be among you, that shall have one sheep, and if it fall into a pit on the Sabbath day, will he not lay hold on it, and lift it out?"

"How much then is a man better than a sheep? Wherefore it is lawful to do well on the Sabbath days."

Then He told the man to stretch forth his hand, and the man, looking into Jesus' face, did so and it immediately became whole like the other hand.

We have told the story before in our Sabbath lessons, but it is a beautiful story and well worth telling over and over.

The Pharisees, knowing that they were beaten, went out and counseled together how they might destroy Him. He was setting at defiance their man-made laws, and, further than that, they never could catch Him off guard. His answers were always ready and Right was on His side.

This man must be destroyed or their authority over the people would be lost. The multitudes would be following and probably imitating this Man with the wonderful personality, the beautiful voice and gracious manner who seemed to think that even common persons had dignity and rights and should be helped at all times when they were in trouble. They, the rulers of the synagogue, would be ignored.

Jesus Heals the Multitude

Jesus knew the Pharisees were plotting against Him, so He withdrew Himself from that place. Great multitudes followed Him and "He healed them all," that might be fulfilled what was spoken by Isaiah.

"Behold My servant, whom I have chosen, My beloved, in whom My soul is well pleased. I will put My spirit upon Him, and He shall show judgment to the Gentiles.

"He shall not strive, nor cry; neither shall any man hear His voice in the streets.

"A bruised reed shall He not break, and smoking flax shall He not quench, till He send forth judgment unto victory.

"And in His name shall the Gentiles trust."

The lamp wick, we read, was usually a strip of linen; when there was but little oil it would burn dimly and smoke. Instead of being a harsh conqueror, the Messiah was gentle and kind. He did not seek to overwhelm and destroy, but consoled and strengthened men. He understood man, who was made in the image of God.

LUTHERANS IN SERVICE TO GET CHURCH GIFTS

Trinity and Christ Lutheran congregations are remembering the 142 confirmed members of the churches, now in the armed forces, by sending Christmas boxes to them. Contents of the boxes included devotional material, tasty nicknacks and valuable articles. Each box was packed neatly last Wednesday evening and mailed out Thursday morning.

Charles Walters served as chairman and three members from each of the five major societies made up the general committee of the church in charge of the project.

Tigers Romp To 68-6 Victory Over Weak Liberty Union Team

Liberty Union Lions scored their first touchdown of the season Friday night but Circleville high school Saturday had chalked up its fourth straight football victory.

The Tigers had rolled up 65 points on six touchdowns, six points after touchdown and a safety when Ralph Seever intercepted a pass and ran 70 yards to make the final score 68-6 with seconds remaining in the game.

The visitors were completely outclassed and the Circleville boys played most of the evening in Liberty Union territory, scoring touchdowns almost as they pleased. Substitutes saw plenty of action and accounted for some of the points and a lot of yardage.

So completely outclassed were the visitors that their ground attack showed a net loss of nine yards for the evening while the Tigers were rolling for 231 yards. The visitors completed passes for a total yardage of 31 yards while the Tigers went 127 yards by air.

Poor punts, fumbles and bad passes from center kept the Fairfield county team deep in their own territory most of the time. The Lions made two first downs, one on a questionable interference ruling on a pass in the first half and the other on a pass in the fourth quarter against the younger Tigers.

Thirteen plays were run before the Tigers scored. From then on touchdowns came faster. Starting on the Liberty Union 38 the Tigers used a ground attack to score first. Heath going over after Hill had made a 23-yard run to the 12. Dade placekicked the extra point.

The next drive bogged down on the 12 but when Seever tried to

WILMINGTON 11 IS BEATEN 21-0 BY GREENFIELD

While Circleville was winning easily in a non-league game other members of the South Central Ohio league were engaging in some throat-cutting.

Greenfield halted the 12-game victory string of Wilmington by scoring a 21-0 victory over the Clinton county team which plays here next Friday.

Hillsboro scored its first SCO win since 1941 by nosing out Washington C. H. 6-0. A 90-yard march, started with five minutes left in the game, ended when big Bob McDowell crashed over the goal line.

TUSKEGEE TIGERS DOWN WILBERFORCE 19 TO 14

UNBEATEN BUCKS BADGERS BATTLE IN WISCONSIN

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 14.—Undeclared Ohio State and undefeated Wisconsin clash today in Camp Randall stadium before a homecoming crowd of some 45,000 in a battle that should do much to determine the ultimate standings in the Big Ten.

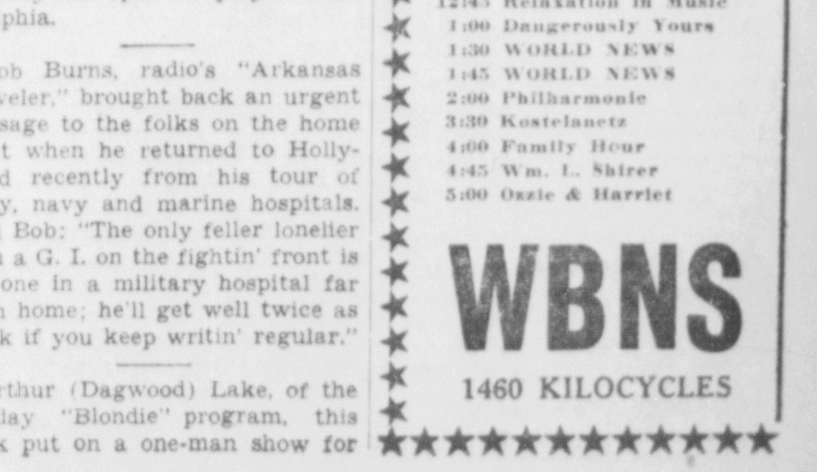

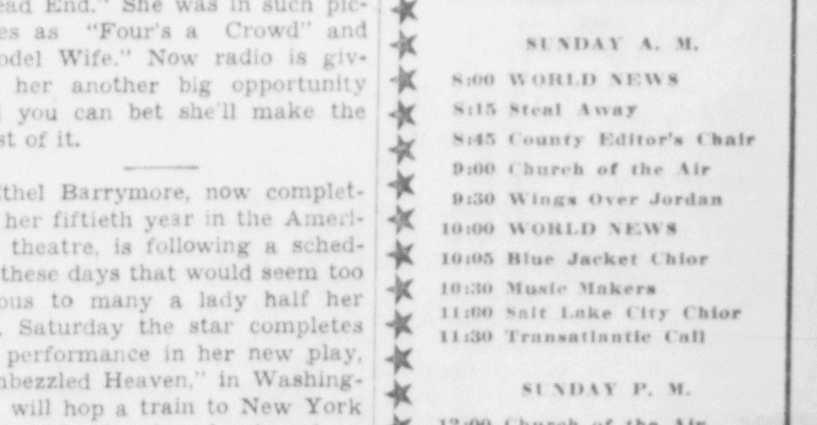

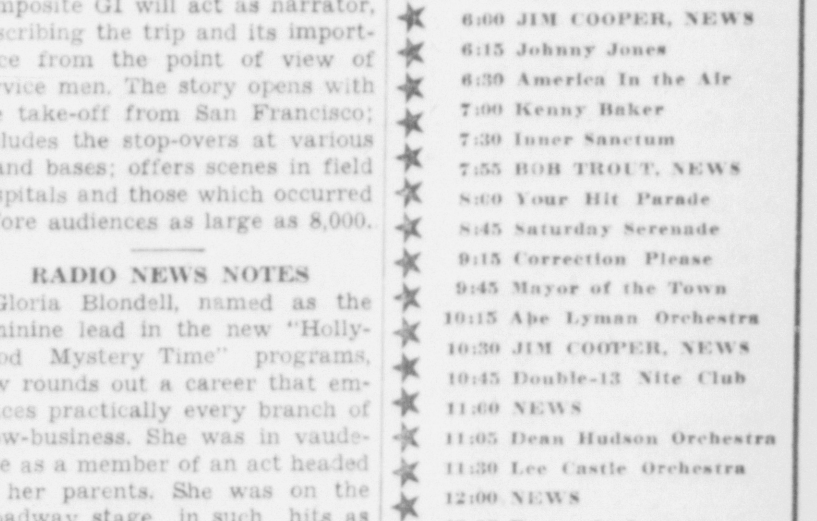

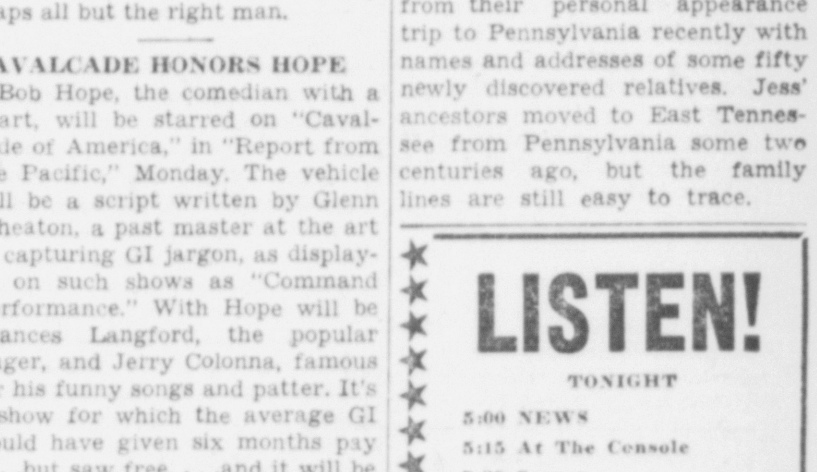

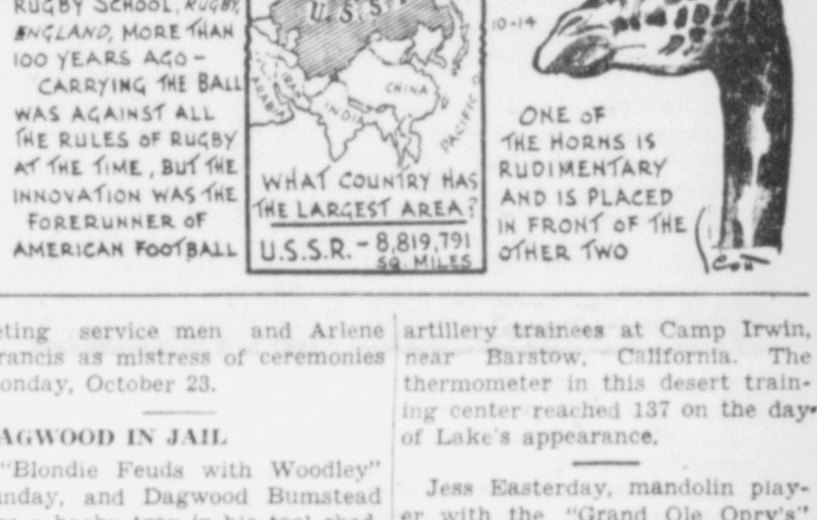

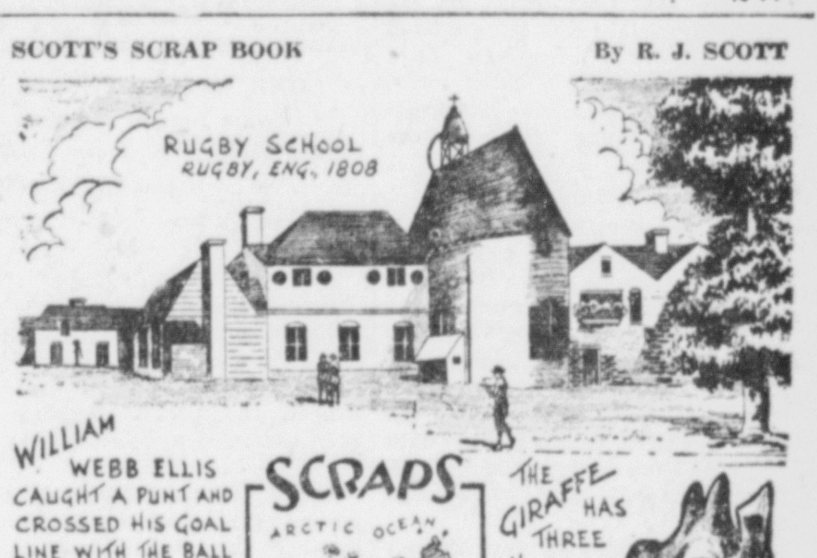

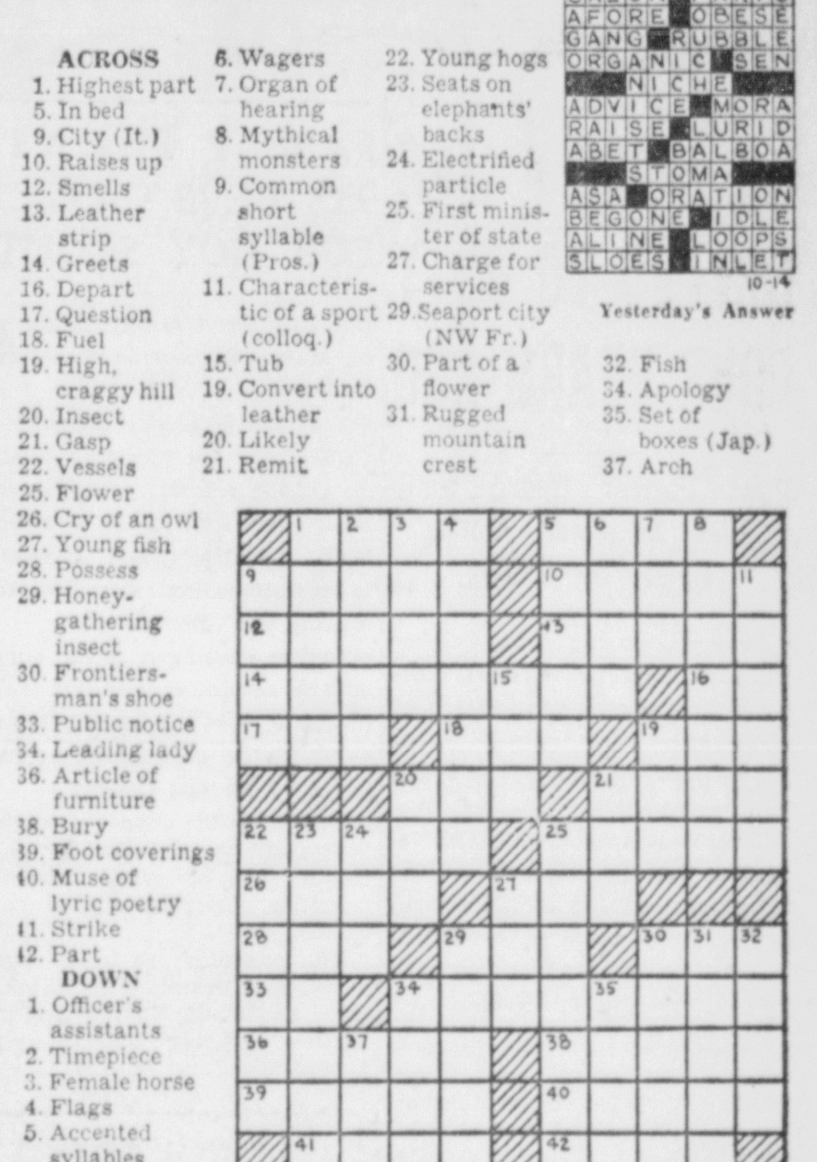

Ohio State, with 88 points scored in two games while its own goal line remained uncrossed, is favored to take the Badgers—just as they were two years ago when a 17-0 upset badger victory spoiled a perfect season for the Bucks.

Wisconsin was expected to take to the air early and often, with Coach Harry Stuhldreher undoubtedly bearing in mind the 326 yards State gained against Iowa a week ago. State for its part has never been strong in the pass defense department.

However, the Buck's stellar collection of seat-backs, led by the Ambling Atom, Les Horvath of Cleveland, is bound to give the Wisconsin line something to worry about.

Both backfields—both teams, in fact—are loaded with freshman talent, but the Bucks appear to have an edge. They will have stiff competition, however, from the Badger's Earl "Jug" Girard, who paced the Wisconsin eleven to its victories over Northwestern and Marquette.

Record of 37th Cited On Fourth Service Anniversary

50 COUNTY MEN CALLED TO DUTY FOUR YEARS AGO

Now, Former Guard Units Well Advanced Along Road To Tokyo

Four years ago Sunday, October 15, 1940, approximately 50 Pickaway county men were mobilized at the armory in Circleville to begin "at least a year's service in the U. S. Army".

They were members of the local Service Battery unit and medical detachment of the Ohio National Guard. After three days of final preparation 45 men and four officers left Circleville October 18 for Camp Shelby, Miss., as part of the advance unit of the 37th Infantry Division. In charge were Capt. William V. Miller, First Lieutenant Tom Drum and Second Lieutenants Paul L. Bowsher and Joseph Lynch.

Since that time some of the Pickaway county men have retired from service while others have been transferred to other units. Many are still with the 37th which has been gaining fame in the South Pacific.

Fourth Anniversary

With the fourth birthday anniversary coming up the public relations department "with the 37th Infantry Division somewhere in the Southwest Pacific area," submits a record of some of the accomplishments of the division.

Ready for the next step on the road to Tokyo, Ohio's famous 37th Infantry Division today looks back from this jungle island on a proud record.

Four years ago Sunday, all over Ohio units of the Ohio National Guard were assembling at their hometown railroad stations for the long trip to Camp Shelby, Mississippi.

Now, its ranks of fighting Buckeyes augmented by men from every state in the Union, the 37th is truly an all-American outfit.

In the words of Major General O. W. Griswold, in whose XIVth Army Corps the 37th battled in the New Georgia and Bougainville campaigns: "The 37th Division need take a back seat to no other division in the United States Army."

Gain Citation

Here's the record: Five infantry companies in the division have been cited by the President for heroism in action in what the War Department has officially termed "one of the outstanding examples of daring and courage" in the Southwest Pacific theatre.

"Magnificent gallantry... heroism... teamwork... will to win" say the citations.

Compiled by men from all walks of life, from farms and cities across the nation, the record continues.

Two Ohioans who gave their lives for their country received its highest award, the Congressional Medal of Honor. Frank Petrarca of Cleveland, medical aid man, in three successive battles, against the warnings of fellow soldiers, went to the rescue of helpless wounded under intense enemy fire.

Mortally wounded himself when he had crawled within 20 yards of Japanese lines, he raised himself to his knees, "shouted defiance at the enemy, made a last attempt to reach his wounded comrade, and fell in glorious death."

Infantryman Rodger Young of Clyde single-handedly knocked out a Jap pillbox and a machine gun that was holding up the advance, then diverted fire to himself to allow his comrades to press forward. His platoon advanced unharmd; he lost his life.

Many Win Medals

Forty-four men have been awarded the Distinguished Service Cross, the Army's second highest decoration, given for extraordinary heroism in action. One received the Navy Cross, the Navy's equivalent award.

Four received Distinguished Service Medals for exceptionally meritorious service in a duty of great responsibility and 51 the Legion of Merit (one with a Navy Gold Star) for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services.

The Silver Star for gallantry in combat with the enemy was awarded to 327 of the division's soldiers.

Thirty-nine have received the Soldier's Medal, awarded to those who risk their lives to save another, not in actual combat.

The Army's newest medal for ground troops, the Bronze Star for heroic or meritorious achievement or service in connection with military operations against the enemy, has been awarded to 1,332 men.

Sixteen members of the division, pilots who hovered over hostile territory in tiny cub planes to direct vital artillery fire, were awarded the Air Medal.

2,269 Wounded

Of the division's approximately 15,000 men, 2,269 have been

FAMILY PICNIC TO BE STAGED FOR BOY SCOUTS

A Boy Scout family picnic will be staged Sunday in Ted Lewis park for Scouts and their families of the Pickaway district.

The program opens at 3:30 p. m. with a softball game between Scouts and their fathers. Following that will be several events for Scouts including signaling, fire-making and compass race.

In the evening a picnic supper will be served, each Scout family providing a picnic basket. Amusement at the dinner will be furnished by Hargus Conley.

Following the supper a court of honor will be conducted by A. E. Gower of Kingston around a campfire. Speaker will be L. R. Bucher.

The program will be in charge of N. L. Cochran, district chairman, and F. E. Wantz, chairman of the camping and activities committee.

MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE

ONE MINUTE PULPIT

A dream cometh through the multitude of business; and a fool's voice is known by multitude of words. — Ecclesiastes 5:3.

Postmaster A. Hulse Hays Saturday morning received official notice that the deadline for mailing Christmas packages to men and women in service overseas had been extended to Monday.

David Glick, of Ringgold pike, who is being given penicillin in St. Anthony hospital, Columbus, for an infection that developed following the extraction of a tooth, is reported improving slowly.

Mack D. Parrett, 214 East Main street, is reported as slightly improved, following a serious illness. He is unable to receive visitors.

Dr. George J. Troutman, of East Mound street, remains in Berger hospital, his condition showing no improvement.

There will be a 50-50 dance Saturday night from 9 to 12 at the Eagles home. It is open to the public. —ad.

The Rev. George L. Troutman, East Mound street, has returned home from Battle Creek, Mich., where he visited Sergeant George Fischer, Jr., at Percy Jones U. S. Army hospital. Not much change is noted in Sgt. Fischer's condition. He suffered wounds in action in France.

Paul Adkins has been released from Berger hospital and removed to his home, Braeburn Farm, Pickaway township. He is recovering after a severe cold.

Mrs. Pearl Hutchison and baby boy were released Friday from Berger hospital and removed to their home on Watt street.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Tener, Circleville Route 3, are parents of a daughter born Friday in Berger hospital.

Mrs. Norbert Linehan is recovering in St. Anthony's hospital, Columbus, following major surgery. Mrs. Linehan is the former Ruth Pickell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Pickell, East Mound street. She is making her home with her parents while her husband, Pfc. Linehan, is with the Armed Forces in France. Mrs. Linehan is in Room 117.

wounded (62 of them twice) and been decorated with the Purple Heart.

Led by Major General Robert S. Beightler, first National Guard general to train his division and then lead it into successful combat, the 37th has been overseas more than 28 months.

They haven't seen any civilization for 18 months. They haven't been in a rest area since they first entered combat.

It was all jungle fighting, fighting against fierce Jap resistance, tough pillboxes, steep mountains, rain. In New Georgia, the division accounted for more than 2,000 Japanese dead. On Bougainville more than 10,000 enemy bodies were counted on the battlefields. Thirty Japs were slain for every American who lost his life in that campaign.

White crosses in long rows on New Georgia and Bougainville honor the division's heroic dead. Many wounded have returned home; some were able to rejoin the division and fight again.

Back to the United States flows a small trickle of men returning under the Army's rotation policy. A few have spent a month at home and are back again.

Fundamentally, the 37th remains the same tested outfit of fighting men, anxious to come home, but continuing their outstanding job of pushing back the Japs.

POLITICS BY PLATTER

Last Monday night, Assistant Secretary of the Interior Oscar L. Chapman got a phone call from Salt Lake City. Heinrich Guss, high-up Utah Democrat, was on the phone.

"We've just been listening to Secretary Ickes speak in Los Angeles," Guss told Chapman, "and he did a great job. He had the crowd roaring with his references to that Trojan horse. It was terrific. 'But,' continued Guss, 'you promised that Ickes would be in Salt Lake City at 9:30 tomorrow, and he can't possibly make it. It's nearly midnight now, and there's no possible way he could get here. Is he going to take a special plane?'"

"No, the Secretary doesn't use special planes," replied Assistant Secretary Chapman, puzzled. "You say you have been listening to his speech tonight?"

"Yes. He just finished," came the reply. "We have a band ready to meet him at the station tomorrow morning and, obviously, he won't be here. What are we going to do?"

"What night is it out there in Utah?" asked Chapman.

"Monday night," "All right," reassured the Assistant Secretary of the Interior, "Secretary Ickes spoke in Los Angeles Sunday night, and you're listening to a rebroadcast of his speech Monday night. He'll be in Salt Lake on time tomorrow."

LOST BATTALIONS

Of all soldiers in the U. S. Army, the most distressed over the War Department's demobilization plan are the men over 35 years of age. They get no extra retirement points because of age. In fact, some of them, because of bad health and inability to get overseas, may be among the last to leave the Army following V-Day.

Stranded in camps throughout the U. S. A., they have become the

AT FIRST SIGN OF A COLD USE 666

"Army's Lost Battalions." Many were snapped up by Selective Service in the early days of the war despite deafness, blindness in one eye and shortage of fingers—all at a time when the Army was in a rush to get almost anyone. Now many of these men are doing semi-menial tasks.

At Fort Meyer, Va., one group is daily assigned to grave digging at the National Cemetery. Others count socks and shirts for the Quartermaster Corps, are now becoming psychological problems for the Army. Some found that infirmities when they entered have become aggravated since, but will never be recognized as having received disabilities in service.

The War Department points out that "theoretically" men over 35 had an opportunity to leave the Army more than a year ago, if they had job opportunities in war industries. But the War Department also admits that it had to stop somewhere, and that since the WAC recruiting program failed, it is now necessary to retain the 35-year-olds to make up for the scarcity of WACS.

COLLECTION SOUGHT ON INSURANCE ASSESSMENTS

Suits against four Pickaway county residents were filed in common pleas court Friday by J. Roth Crabbe, state superintendent of insurance. The actions seek collection of assessments against policy holders of the Tower Mutual Insurance company.

The petitions ask $264 from Orville J. Rasor, Commercial Point; $282.30 from J. B. Woods, Circleville; $128.32 from William Teets, Circleville, and $124 from Clarence List, Circleville. The state also asks payment of interest at six per cent from October 28, 1935.

Another Draftee Group Sent To Columbus For Pre-Induction Tests

Another group of Pickaway county Selective Service registrants reported at Columbus Saturday morning for pre-induction physical examinations and two men reported for immediate induction.

Howard B. Moore, Circleville, was leader of those taking examinations. Others in the group were: Paul J. Smith, Galloway, Ohio; Donald E. Brungs, Circleville; Paul R. Donohoe, New Holland; Lawrence E. Pettibone, Ashville; William G. Holbrook, Circleville; James B. Wells, Circleville; Donald W. Pontious, Williamsport; Richard L. Moore, Tarleton; Franklin D. ville; Paul E. Gochenour, Ashville; Elmer R. Stout, Jr., Ashville; William H. Rush, Orient; George W. Rihl, Laurelville; Harold W. McQuirt, Columbus; John J. Williams, Circleville.

All of the men reporting Saturday were under 26. Selective Service officials said, most of them being 18-year-old youths.

Abe Lincoln said you could fool some of the people some of the time, etc.—but Abe never listened to the radio.

AMERICAN ESSAY CONTEST JUDGES ARE SELECTED

Judges for the "Why I Am Proud to be an American" essay contest being conducted in Circleville high school were announced Saturday. They are Rev. L. C. Sherburn, Miss Margaret Rooney and Mrs. Lyle Cryder.

Principal J. Wray Henry of the high school said Saturday night that much interest had been shown in the contest being sponsored by the Grand theater in connection with the showing here of "An American Romance." Several essays have already been written, Mr. Henry said.

A $25 war bond will go to the local winner and his or her essay will be entered in the four-state competition where war bond prizes of $200, $100, and $50 will be awarded.
